

8. File Reading:

- Create a text file with some content. Write a function `read_file(filename)` that takes a filename, opens the file, reads the content, and prints it. Test the function by passing the name of the text file you created.
- You can handle the exceptions may occur during execution.