

9. File Writing:

- Write a function `write_to_file(filename, content)` that takes a filename and content, opens the file in write mode, and writes the content to the file. After running the function, open the file to verify that the content was written correctly.
- You can handle the exceptions may occur during execution.